DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Durheim in view of Chang et al 780'. Durheim teaches a laser drilling system having fluid supply as claimed, which is mentioned only as air. The patent to Chang et al is applied for evidencing that laser drilling and fluid supply such as oxygen, nitrogen and inert gases can be used in conjunction with the laser to effect a more accurate hole in the work. (See column 4, lines 6-8). In view of Chang et al it would have been obvious to modify the Durham system to specifically use processing gases in conjunction with the laser, to effect a more accurate and precise hole formation. Note that a spaced backing plate 56 is set forth in the Durham system, and Chang et al as well teach use of a backing plate. As per claims 5 and 7 it is considered an obvious choice for the artisan to supply the process gas in a direction consummate with the direction of debris removal or hole direction, noting that process gases are traditionally supplied at an angle to the laser beam direction to blow away debris. The particular angle of gas supply set forth in the dependent claims is likewise considered a routine choice in design, responsive to the work hole design desired.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Callies et al and Sturmer et al are cited for disclosing laser drilling systems using process gases to assist the drilling.
